

TABLE OF CONTENTS

FROM THE EDITOR.....

What to do with a broken heart 87

This issue contains papers discussing noninvasive cardiac testing, the controversy surrounding late thrombosis associated with drug-eluting stents, and how to recognize and repair an atrial septal defect or patent foramen ovale.

B. F. MANDELL

REVIEW.....

Differentiating bipolar disorder from depression in primary care 89

When physicians encounter a patient who obviously is depressed, they should not assume that the patient has unipolar depression until they have ruled out bipolar disorder, formerly called "manic-depressive illness."

D. J. MUZINA, E. COLANGELO, J. S. MANNING, AND J. R. CALABRESE

HISTORY OF MEDICINE.....

Abraham Lincoln and the 'Lincoln sign' 108

Some believe that a blurry foot in a photograph suggests that our 16th president had aortic regurgitation due to Marfan syndrome.

C. KROEN

MEDICAL GRAND ROUNDS.....

Better glycemic control in the hospital: Beneficial and feasible 111

Professional societies have issued consensus guidelines urging hospitals to tackle hyperglycemia in an organized fashion, and hospitals are taking up the challenge.

S. CLEMENT

INTRODUCING A NEW SERIES.....

Choosing the right coronary test 122

Technical advances have substantially improved the clinician's ability to find and describe coronary disease. They also pose a bewildering array of choices.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT CORONARY TEST..... 123

What is the best test for a patient with classic angina? 123

In patients with a normal resting electrocardiogram and no prior revascularization, a regular exercise stress test without imaging should suffice. However, no randomized trials have been done to determine if this strategy leads to better outcomes than empiric therapy does.

REVIEW..... 129

Understanding and minimizing late thrombosis in drug-eluting stent 129

Though late stent thrombosis is rare, the risk is real and it is greater with drug-eluting stents than with bare metal stents.

REVIEW..... 137

When and how to fix a 'hole in the heart': Approach to ASD and PFO 137

While correcting some abnormalities of the atrial septum is beneficial, most other defects warrant correction only under very specific circumstances.

REVIEW..... 149

Which ovarian masses need intervention? 149

Ovarian cancer is deadly if not detected early, but it is only one of many causes of pelvic masses, which are common.
