MEDICAL GRAND ROUNDS

Cardiovascular disease myths and facts 286

Physicians need to overcome the myths that cardiovascular disease is going away and is a good way to die, as these myths are undermining research and prevention efforts.

J.L. BRESLOW

Kuru and mad cow disease: Understanding the prion theory 291

With the recent controversy in England over mad cow disease, there is a growing understanding that prions are not just a medical curiosity, but a grave public health threat. With an illustration explaining how proteins can mutate and become infectious.

G.R. OLDS

TRENDS IN MEDICINE

The hospitalist: Will inpatient specialists improve care? 297

The number of practitioners specializing in inpatient medicine is growing as a response to managed care's push for better health outcomes and cost control.

F. MICHOTA, JR, T. LEWIS, AND J.M. CASH

CURRENT DRUG THERAPY

Sildenafil (Viagra) for male erectile dysfunction 301

A brief overview of sildenafil, the first oral drug for treating erectile dysfuntion. With an illustration showing how the drug works.

M.R. LICHT

REVIEWS

Infectious disease and transplantation: Messages for the generalist 305

With more patients receiving transplants and surviving longer afterward, their primary care physicians are called on to evaluate problems as they arise.

REVIEWS

Management of patients with solitary pulmonary nodules 315

The goals of management are to resect malignant tumors while avoiding unnecessary thoracotomy of benign nodules. But sometimes this is not easy.

P. JAIN, S.A. KATHAWALLA, AND A.C. ARROLIGA

INTERNAL MEDICINE BOARD REVIEW

A 61-year-old woman with edema, shortness of breath, and pleuritic chest pain 327

What is the likely cause of this patient's symptoms? A self-quiz on a clinical case.

C. NIELSEN AND P. MAZZONE

EDITORIALS

Some perspective on Viagramania 331

The sales of Viagra are not surprising, given that the search for a drug to enhance sexual performance is as old as written history.

L.R. SCHOVER

The promises and risks of inpatient specialization 332

Much of the benefit of hospitalist care will be lost if we place the emphasis on wringing every last nickel out of the cost of providing care.

J.D. CLOUGH
