FROM THE EDITOR

Escaping the heat in the EMR pool 407

The electronic medical record (EMR) is a tool, and it performs at the skill level of the person using it.

B. F. MANDELL

COMMENTARY

The electronic medical record: Diving into a shallow pool? 408

We should reassess the possible unintended consequences of the rush to adopt electronic medical records.

J. T. HANLON

COMMENTARY

The electronic medical record: Learning to swim 415

Skepticism and vigilance are warranted, but so is optimism.

T. I. ABELSON

THE CLINICAL PICTURE

The eyes: A window into the past 422

The patient, 33 years old and living in Southern California, has "spots" on the retina. What is the most likely diagnosis?

N. F. CRUM-CIANFLONE

Pyogenic liver abscess 426

Klebsiella pneumoniae has emerged as the most common organism seen in pyogenic liver abscess.

N. T. NAZIR, J. D. PENFIELD, AND V. HAJJAR

Coenzyme Q10:
A therapy for hypertension and statin-induced myalgia?

These supplements appear to be safe, but larger trials are needed to determine if they are truly effective.

M. WYMAN, M. LEONARD, AND T. MORLEDGE

CME CREDIT REVIEW 445

Menstrual manipulation:
Options for suppressing the cycle

If they wish, women can have more control over when and if they menstruate, even though myths and misperceptions abound among clinicians.

C.W. HICKS AND E.S. ROME

CME CREDIT REVIEW 457

Pharmacoresistant epilepsy:
From pathogenesis to current and emerging therapies

Almost one-third of people with epilepsy continue to have seizures despite appropriate treatment. We recommend early referral to an epilepsy center.

S. PATI AND A.V. ALEXOPOULOS

CME CREDIT REVIEW 468

Bariatric surgery for type 2 diabetes:
Weighing the impact for obese patients

Bariatric surgery results in remission of diabetes in most patients. Why should this be?

S.R. KASHYAP, P. GATMAITAN, S. BRETHAUER, AND P. SCHAUER
