FROM THE EDITOR

The pipe and the plug: Is unblocking arteries enough? 473

We all should be more aggressive in using treatments that reduce the progression of coronary artery disease—particularly in patients with diabetes.

B.F. MANDELL

PERSONALIZING PATIENT CARE

Clinical applications of pharmacogenetics: Present and near future 477

Pharmacogenetics promises to give clinicians the tools to make treatment decisions based on genetic testing.

P.A. GLADDING

CME CREDIT PERSONALIZING PATIENT CARE

Should we use pharmacogenetic testing when prescribing warfarin? 483

There is evidence in favor of testing, but not yet enough to strongly recommend it.

M. ROUSE, C. CRISTIANI, AND K.A. TENG

IM BOARD REVIEW

A 51-year-old woman with dyspnea 487

Her symptoms began 4 days ago. She appears uncomfortable and anxious, her pulse is over 160, and her respirations are 40. What is going on?

J.J. LIANG, A.D. GOLDBERG, AND B. AFESSA

THE CLINICAL PICTURE

Lung air-fluid level in a smoker 500

A 49-year-old man with a 25-pack-year history had a striking finding on radiography.

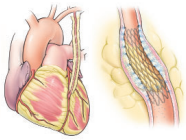
CME CREDIT REVIEW

Incidental ovarian cysts: When to reassure, when to reassess, when to refer 503

Most cysts are benign, but a few are malignant, with a notoriously poor survival rate. How can we tell if a patient truly needs surgery?

E.K. ROSS AND M. KEBRIA

CME CREDIT INTERPRETING KEY TRIALS



The FREEDOM trial: In appropriate patients with diabetes and multivessel coronary artery disease, CABG beats PCI 515

A large randomized trial finds bypass grafting superior to percutaneous intervention in a highly selected population.
