FROM THE EDITOR ................................................................................................................ 581
A sneaky vascular disease
Cholesterol embolization syndrome may provide insights into atherosclerotic disease.
Brian F. Mandell, MD, PhD

THE CLINICAL PICTURE ........................................................................................................ 587
Verrucous plaques on the face, dysphagia, and limb weakness
An itchy bump on the upper lip rapidly grew and spread.
Kerry Hennessy, MD; Mahmoud Shorman, MD, MHA

THE CLINICAL PICTURE ........................................................................................................ 590
Miliary tuberculosis in a patient with end-stage liver disease
Chest radiography showed patchy left basilar consolidation with subtle, diffuse interstitial opacities.
Victoria Poplin, MD; Brent Harbaugh, DO, MA; Matthias Salathe, MD; Nathan C. Bahr, MD, MA

1-MINUTE CONSULT .............................................................................................................. 595
When is contrast needed for abdominal and pelvic CT?
The decision to use contrast depends on the diagnosis suspected.
Mark Radetic, MD; Robert DeVita, MD; John Haaga, MD

1-MINUTE CONSULT .............................................................................................................. 599
Should we give triple therapy to patients with atrial fibrillation after percutaneous intervention?
Triple therapy is aggressive and carries high risks of bleeding and death.
Asim Kichloo, MD; Michael M. Aljadah, MD; Farah Wani, MD; Sindhura Ananthaneni, MD

COMMENTARY ...................................................................................................................... 602
Overcoming obesity: Weight-loss drugs are underused
Successful management of obesity requires a multifaceted approach.
Amjad Kanj, MD, MPH, Diane Levine, MD, FACP

SYMPTOMS TO DIAGNOSIS .................................................................................................... 605
Peripheral artery disease and unusual skin findings
A 68-year-old man was admitted because of worsening skin problems in his legs.
Aaron Andrew Heiggaard Smith, MD; Erin Luxenberg, MD; Roberta Meyers, MD, MPH

CONTINUED ON PAGE 580
REVIEW

Promoting resiliency in adolescents during a pandemic: A guide for clinicians and parents

Parents of adolescents may face unique challenges in helping their children navigate changes to their daily routine.

Ellen S. Rome, MD, MPH; Perry B. Dinardo, MA; Veronica E. Issac, MD

COVID-19 and the kidney

The kidney may be a target of SARS-CoV-2 infection.

Mohamed Hassanein, MD; Yeshwanter Radhakrishnan, MD; John Sedor, MD; Tushar Vachharajani, MD; Vidula T. Vachharajani, MD; Joshua Augustine, MD; Sevag Demirjian, MD; George Thomas, MD

REVIEW

Hospital-acquired and ventilator-associated pneumonia: Diagnosis, management, and prevention

Better diagnosis, management, and prevention are needed.

Anita Rae Modi, MD; Christopher S. Kovacs, MD

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The R in PRES

Posterior reversible encephalopathy syndrome lacks universal diagnostic criteria.

Amado Jiménez-Ruiz, MD; Miguel García-Grinshaw, MD; Juan Andrés Calderón Martínez, MD; Isael Reyes-Melo, MD

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Trousseau sign and syndrome: Erroneous terms

Trousseau never described a constellation of symptoms in this disease.

Steven Yale, MD, MACP; Halil Tekiner, PhD; Joseph Mazza, MD; Eileen Scott Yale, MD

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Trousseau sign and syndrome: Erroneous terms. In reply

Trousseau sign should continue to be taught and recognized on physical examination.

Satish S. Maharaj, MD; Michael Omar, MBBS; Karan Seegobin, MBBS; Simone Chang, MBBS

DEPARTMENTS

CME Calendar

CME/MOC Instructions