Table of Contents

From the Editor

Heightening awareness of blistering disorders 308

The spectrum of associated disorders ranges from annoying to life-threatening.

Brian F. Mandell, MD, PhD

The Clinical Picture

Evolving distal signs 310

The patient’s evolving signs and symptoms prompted a reconsideration of his diagnosis.

Zackary D. Goff, MD; Sandra E. Zaeh, MD, MS; Michael K. Poku, MD; John N. Aucott, MD; Allan C. Gelber, MD

Editorial

Famous and not-so-famous physical findings in infectious endocarditis: A look back 316

It is difficult to find a disease more emblematic of the practice of internal medicine.

Adam J. Brown, MD

Symptoms to Diagnosis

New bullous lesions in a 72-year-old woman 319

Her history included psoriasis, chronic lower-extremity edema, and hypertension.

Hadrian Mendoza, MD; Justin Goodwin, MS; Jeffrey Gehlhausen, MD; Ian Odell, MD, PhD; Jennifer McNiff, MD; Karthik Gnanapandithan, MD

Review

Dual antiplatelet therapy after percutaneous coronary intervention: Personalize the duration 325

A review of current guidelines on the duration of therapy and perioperative management.

Travis M. Howard, MD; Umesh N. Khot, MD

---

Upcoming Features

- Asthma management: The GINA report
- Exercise in older women
- Tobacco cessation: Current management options
CONTINUED FROM PAGE 306

REVIEW ..............................................................................................................................

Medical complications of bulimia nervosa  333
Complications can affect all body systems, but especially the renal and electrolyte systems.
Allison Nitsch, MD; Heather Dlugosz, MD; Dennis Gibson, MD; Philip S. Mehler, MD, FACP, FAED

REVIEW ..............................................................................................................................

Point-of-care ultrasonography for the hospitalist  345
POCUS has emerged as a vital tool in various disciplines of medicine.
Guramrinder Singh Thind, MD; Steven Fox, MD; Mohit Gupta, MD; Praveen Chahar, MD; Robert Jones, DO, FACEP; Siddharth Dugar, MD

DEPARTMENTS ...............................................................................................................

CME Calendar 312
CME/MOC Instructions 360